

CHINOOK BEND RV RESORT

“The most commented features of the resort are my river sites, the fishing, and the customer service our park offers,” says Manager Sean Simmons. “You’ll not find a happier crew anywhere.” If that isn’t enticement enough, there’s much more. In fact, the website suggests that Chinook Bend Resort is a destination—not a one-night stand.

With a half-mile of frontage on the Siletz River, Chinook Bend RV Resort in Lincoln City, Oregon, offers many fishing, boating, and crabbing opportunities. Fish for chinook (king) salmon, steelhead, giant sturgeon, and ocean perch during the fishing seasons. The shoreline is dotted with fishing docks for your convenience. Bring your boat and launch it from the only boat launching ramps on the river. For adventure, make the three-mile boat ride to the Pacific Ocean. You can also rent kayaks, boats and canoes.

Not into fishing? Dust off your golf clubs and try your hand at the 9-hole pitch and chip golf course or participate in one of the many golf tournaments. Walk on the miles of hiking trails or take your pooch to the “world’s longest doggie trail run.”

Other amenities include riverfront camping facilities, 6,000-foot barn/clubhouse, exercise equipment, cable TV and Internet connection, and a social and craft facility. Enjoy pot lucks, bingo, Western line dancing, and karaoke. Off site, take nature tours, or visit music festivals and craft fairs.

Nearby, Siletz Bay National Wildlife Refuge consists of some of the most scenic estuarine habitat along the Pacific Coast Scenic Byway. The refuge attracts large numbers of migratory birds such as mallard, northern pintail, American widgeon, green-winged teal, bufflehead, red-breasted merganser, and hooded merganser.
